Experience

Career Break
2022 - 2023

Professional Development

My personal sabbatical focused on taking an extended paternity leave with my new baby and strengthening my knowledge through formal education. During this time, I focused on learning, and immersed myself in software development and product management.

Having achieved a grade of distinction in software development with University of Birmingham, I am now working towards a qualification in Product Management with Career Foundry.

33RED Films
2022 - 2023

Senior Producer/Project Manager

33Red Films is a production company based in London that specialises in creating film content for clients including The British Army, Accenture and Royal Mail. In addition to managing cross-functional teams, I was also a member of the SLT delivering on operational projects.

- Analysed existing workflow and discovered an overspend of c. 10 days per project
- Researched and documented 5 product options to share with fellow senior leadership team
- Collaborated with 8 members of the post-production department to write a business case and present it to the executive team
- Succeeded in managing the licensing and contract with an external supplier as well as internal installation and implementation inc. creating documentation for use and new processes within the team and wider organisation which improved workflow and increased productivity

Deloitte / BP
2017 - 2022

Freelance Producer/Project Manager

Oversaw project lifecycle including creative ideation, budgeting and timeline adherence, to ensure seamless project delivery.

- Orchestrated cross-functional teams of technical experts to execute productions, driving initiatives that contributed to the acquisition of new business opportunities.
- Supervised teams of producers and production managers, conducting regular one-on-one meetings and quarterly performance reviews to optimise team performance and foster growth within the organisation.

Wellcome
2017 - 2022
